THREATENED HARVEST TROUBLE AVERTED BY AUTHORITIES MONDAY

Demonstrators At Decoto Dispersed Without Violence

Threatened since the beginning of the pea harvest, labor troubles in southern Alameda county almost boiled over late Monday night, when a group of alleged demonstrators were met and dispersed by a squad of deputy sheriffs at the Kennedy ranch north of Decoto. There was no violence.

The incipient trouble began at the Joe Silveria ranch, where thirty pickers were incited to strike. With their ranks swollen with some twenty-five more disgruntled workers and a number of itinerants, the delegation was marching on the Kennedy ranch, where some 300 workers are camped, when they were met by the representatives of the sheriff's office. The strikers were persuaded to disperse without testing the equipment of the officers.

It is said that the strikers were demanding a wage of thirty cents a hamper instead of the seventeen cents maximum decided at a growers' meeting at Centrville two weeks ago.

Continuous vigilance of authorities in the harvest districts, and a close surveillance of all labor camps are said to be responsible for the peaceful harvest thus far.

FEDERAL COURT TO TRY POST OFFICE ROBBERY SUSPECT

E. R. "Whitey" Lewis To Appear Next Week at San Francisco

Edgar R. "Whitey" Lewis, alias Frank Thurman, alleged post office robber, was arraigned Monday before Federal Judge Harold Louderback at San Francisco, on an indictment charging him with robbing the Newark post office last September 11. The case was put over until next week for a plea by Lewis.

The arrested man is said to be the thief who broke into the Newark establishment last year and took stamps and cash amounting to $230

According to press dispatches, officers said that Lewis had been previously sentenced to McNeil Island penitentiary for robbery of the post office at Warren, Arizona, on March 19, 1933. Lewis is said to have escaped after serving several months of a five-year sentence.

He was arrested on the Newark count at Port LaVaca, Texas, last December.

CIVIC CROUP WILL RETAIN MEMBERSHIP IN STATE CHAMBER

Action Taken After Mild Debate At Monday Meeting

Reading of correspondence from other civic groups and a mild debate on a question arising as to policy the Niles Chamber of Commerce spent a leisurely hour Monday noon.

Foremost among bulletins read at the meet was one released from the NRA headquarters proving that 1933 business returns were in excess of those for 1932. The balance sheet definitely proved that deficits in approximately fifty lines of industry had been substantially cut and that net profits had increased in nearly all lines.

A letter from the Livermore rodeo committee was read asking the Niles civic group to accord the same support as was given last year. The rodeo is slated for June 9 and 10, with the parade to be held on the 9th at 10:00 a. m.

Correspondence from the El Centro Chamber of Commerce (Imperial Valley) was read, advocating that the Niles group join in a movement to secure municipal aid for civic groups throughout the state. It seemed to be the contention of the El Centro group that chambers of commerce, in view of their valuable work, should be partially or wholly supported by the community in which they exist. No action was taken by the Niles group.

Following a debate as to the value of doing so, the chamber Monlay voted to again become a member of the state chamber of commerce. A. J. Petsche staunchly advocated continuation of the membership in the face of planned opposition from R. B. Blucow and E. A. Ellsworth.

At the close of the meet, F. V. Jones reminded the members of school week, beginning on April 23. A. J. Rathbone will have charge of the entertainment for the day.

District Attorney Earl Warren, Jones said, will be speaker at the last meet this month—the meet on April 30.

DEMOCRATIC CLUB MEETING WELL ATTENDED

PILFERS STOGIES; GETS SIXTY DAY JAIL TERM

Acquitted last year on a charge of burglary, Sabino Sabole, of Alvarado, is again in the toils of of the law. He was arrested on a petty theft charge brought by A. Mello Alvarado store propietor, and sentenced to sixty days in the county jail.

Sabole was taken into custody Sunday night by Constable Tom Silva when the latter was summoned by Mello, who had seized Sabole in the act of pilfering several cigars from the case. Appearing before Judge Allen G. Norris Monday morning, Sabole pleaded guilty to the charge and was sentenced to the sixty-day term.

Sabole was tried and acquitted by the superior court last year on a burglary count.

TWO NILES SCOUTS TO GET HIGHEST HONOR APRIL 8

The National Council of the Boy Scouts of America, after several months of investigation, will honor two Niles scouts with the highest award that may be made—life saving medals. The award will be made the evening of April 8, at the City Hall Council Chamber in Oakland.

The two scouts, Jack Townsend and Lawrence Pine, saved the life of twelve-year-old John Neves, of Decoto, last July, after he had gone down for the last time in the gravel pit swimming hole west of Niles. The scouts took the Neves boy's unconscious form from the water, and by artificial respiration revived him.

Townsend and Pine were recommended for the medal by George Coit, Frank Nunes, Ray Peterson, William Mette and other scout officials in Washington township.

It is the hope of the Oakland council that Niles will turn out to see the local boys honored.

MEMBERSHIP DRIVE NETS NEW BLOOD FOR CHAMBER

Tuesday, the initial day of the Niles Chamber of Commerce membership drive for 1934, gives promise of an increased participation this year. A. J. Petsche and D. B. Colville, canvassing the town east of Eye street, secured four new members and one more who had not joined for several years.

The new members are Howard V. Fournier, postmaster; Rosebud Beauty Shoppe, Crane Garage, and Louis Lewis. Charles Hiser, of Hiser's Shoe Shop, returned to the fold after a number of years on the outside.

The canvass of the town will continue this week and for some time thereafter, according to Petsche. He stated his pleasure at the response accorded.

Harvey Braun and E. E. Glassbrook, canvassing west of Eye street, added the DeLuxe Barber Shop to the new member list.

Local Voters About-Face To Support Project In Light Ballot

Proving that the former ballot was not a conclusive test of public opinion, or that human nature is somewhat fickle, voters in Washington township about-faced at the polls Tuesday and fell in with the rest of the county to voice approval of the new county courthouse.

Lack of interest in the question seemed universal throughout the county, as well as in Washington township, where only 1014 votes were cast. The balloting was much lighter on the question of the courthouse here than it was in the water district election of March 27.

Washington township polled 675 votes in approval of the courthouse, which was almost two to one over the 339 dissenting ballots.

Site number one, or the present location of the hall of records, took the eye of local voters, who cast 347 votes in favor of it. Site number two followed closely with 337.

Of the sixteen precincts in the township, only three had majorities against the proposed bonds. Mission San Jose cast 67 noes to 32 yeas to head the list of dissenting precincts.

Following is an unofficial tabulation of the precincts:

Ready To Go, Firemen Ask, "Where's the Fire"

Poised on the fire trucks Thursday noon, after the siren had split the peace and quiet, Niles firemen suddenly realized that no one had told of the location of the blaze, and rather than dash about in search of it, the smoke eaters decided to make a few inquiries.

With the expectant gallery surging about First street, and cluttering up the sidewalks, the firemen dismounted and proceeded to trace the alarm. It turned out to be a wrong number.

Someone, name unknown, had called for the Niles Water company, and was connected with the Niles fire department alarm headquarters at a Niles restaurant. The mention of "water" apparently confused the restaurant man, for he turned in an alarm.

Miss Lurena Chenery and her mother, Mrs. Horace Chenery, of Long Beach were guests of Mrs. W. F. Calkins, at Berkeley on Easter Sunday.

ALLEGED RUSTLER ACQUITTED AT STOCKTON

Out for fifty minutes at the superior court at Stockton last Tuesday the jury in the trial of Walter P. Lawyer alleged cattle rustler returned a verdict of acquittal. Lawyer was freed of charges brought against him by cattlemen in San Joaquin county, where he had been accused as the perpetrator of several cattle thefts.

Lawyer was immediately taken Contra Costa county where he will face similar charges. Santa Clara county still has holls on the suspect and an acquittal in Contra Costa will lead to his trial at San Jose.

Said to be implicated in several cattle thefts, Lawyer was arrested at his Newark ranch recently.

PEA PRICES DOWN AFTER INCREASE LAST WEEK

Following a slight flurry early last week dnring which pea prices rose to between two and one-half to three cents growers this week have slowed down to keep pace with a drop to as low as one and one-quarter cents.

According to George Foote local grower, the quality of the crop this year is far below par. He stated that a lack of rain during the period just after the blossoms had formed, detracted vigor from the vines. The peas failed to attain full size in many of the fields. In addition to the lack of moisture, the attack of aphis were above normal. Many of the vines were victims of mildew, according to Foote.

Growers in the district, having failed to realize any sizeable profit from the early pickings, are united in the opinion that the crop will not end a very successful one. The later varieties may be a greater value, but it is thought that they will find a full market.

AUTHORITIES SEEK GIRL MISSING FROM CAMP

No trace of fifteen-year-old Rita Gonzalves, alleged to have left a camp of Mexican pea pickers at Mission San Jose last Wednesday night with a motorist, has been discovered this week, according to Deputy Sheriff Hugo Radbruch.

The girl was discovered missing by her mother, Mrs. Theresa Gonzalves after the latter had finished arranging the camp. The motorist is said to have given the Gonzalves a ride to the Mission from San Jose

According to reports, Mrs. Gonzalves appealed to local authorities to help locate the missing girl. The mother told Radbruch that she did not know the motorist's name or address. She stated that she had heard him called "Herman." The girl is described as being an attractive Spanish type, about five feet four inches tall and weighing about 118 pounds.

TWO JAILED AFTER EASTER ACCIDENTS ON LOCAL HIGHWAY

Niles Man Is Held After Sunday Crash Near Centerville

Two men, one local, were placed in the Hayward jail Sunday night as the result of two Easter Sunday crashes in Washington township. Both men were said to be under the influence of liquor at the time of the accidents.

F. H. Andrade of Niles, was arrested by William Hamilton, of the California state highway patrol after the latter had investigated Andrade's crash with a car driven by E. G. Ham, of San Jose. The accident occurred on the Centerville-Irvington road a short distance south of Centerville. Ham and Mrs. Eleanor Winkle, who was riding with him, were cut and bruised in the pile-up.

Anton Jensen, Jr., of Oakland, was taken into custody at about 7:00 Sunday evening after he had swerved across the road on the Mission highway south of Niles, and crashed into a car driven by C. L. Miller, of Oakland. The arrest was made by Harold Atkins highway patrolman.

Andrade and Jensen will appear Friday afternoon at the Centerville justice court on charges of driving an automobile while under the influence of an intoxicant.

Campfire Girls Benefit Adds to Summer Fund

The summer camp fire fund, filled each year to help pay vacation expenses of the summer outing, was swelled last night at a and party given by the Mothers' Club at the Niles Grammar school.

Mrs. Roland Bendel, chairman of the ways and means committee, had charge of the arrangements. The mothers were assisted in serving refreshments by members of the older group of girls.

The benefit was well attended.

Range Will Be Under A Continuous Patrol At Night

Cattle-stealing activities in southern Alameda county rampant during the past eight months, will be brought up shartly, according to Thomas V. Perry, Sunol catleman.

Fifty head of cattle have been pilfered from the local ranges, cattlemen say, without conviction of any of the thieves. Ranchers in the Sunol region organized last week to patrol their own ranges at night. The territory will be carefully and continually watched. It is their hope that cattlemen in other parts of the south county will join with them in their campaign, Perry said.

Deputy Sheriffs Van Patten and Hugo Radbruch, fully aware of the situation, have been doing valuable work on the problem.

According to Perry, the thieves have a highly organized system. An investigation of clues shows that a truck is used. It apparently brings several men to the chosen range, leaves them, and drives away. The thieves then progress on foot, Perry said, evidently with a bright light to attract the cattle. The animals are killed on the spot, then carried to the fence, slung between poles. The truck returns at an appointed hour, and the haul is carted away.

Perry states emphatically that the vigilance of the organized cattlemen will not be relaxed until the situation is cleared up.

ALLEGED VIOLATORS OF NARCOTICS ACT APPEAR TOMORROW

Two Siezed Thursday At Alvarado; Possessed Marijuana

Siezed at Alvarado last Thursday for alleged violation of the state narcotics act, Salvador Ramirez and Eleuterio Najero, both of Alvarado will appear for examination tomorrow before Judge J. A. Silva at the Niles courthouse.

The two men were arrested by Constable O. W. Ebright and State Narcotic Inspector L. G. Jester at Alvarado. They were taken immediately to the Niles jail, where they were questioned by Deputy Sheriff Hugo Radbruch. Ramirez is said to have admitted possession of two pounds of marijuana. According to authorities, the two men admitted that they had been operating in the narcotic traffic for some time. They are said to have stated that they paid two dollars for two pounds of the smoking mixture and sold it for seven.

Ramirez and Najero were lodged in the Niles jail Thursday night and arraigned Friday before Judge J. A. Silva.

CAVERN MAY LINK INDIANS TO ASIA

Man Stalking Moose Makes Interesting Discovery.

Edmonton, Alta.—Deep in a weird solitude known as Dead Man's valley, where hot springs encourage exotic plant growths in odd contrasts to the firs and pine of the North, a trapper has found a cliff dwelling which may definitely link North American Indians with Mongol tribesmen.

Ed Clausen, known as "The Lone Wolf of the Barrens," made the discovery.

While trailing a wounded moose he encountered a pathway down the face of a cliff. Turning down the path he came to a giant room cut from the rock, some 75 feet below the crest of the cliff and 150 feet above the valley floor.

An aperture permitted light to enter the room. Clausen discovered a chimney cut through the rock to the upper surface of the cliff. Animals apparently had used the room as a refuge and resting place for centuries.

The trapper did not remain long in the place. Anxious to make his way back to camp, he did not take time to search for tools or implements which might have been left in the room. He did make an examination which assured him that the room had been hewn from the rock by humans, and was no natural formation.

Prof. E. A. Corbett of the University of Alberta, an authority on North American Indians, said that the discovery might be of greatest importance.

It may substantiate a theory that Mongols left their Asiatic homes 20,000 years ago, crossed the Bering straits, traveled to the Mackenzie river district, then spread southward along the eastern slope of the Rocky mountains to populate this continent with aboriginal tribesmen.

Flyer Reports on Ruins Under Dead Sea Surface

San Francisco.—An R. A. F. officer stationed at Abukir reports that while flying over the bay he saw ruins below the water, says the San Francisco Chronicle. Fishermen confirmed the existence of two groups of ruins, each comprising several columns. Prince Omar Toussoun undertook investigations with the help of a diver.

Several columns were identified standing on the bottom in three fathoms of water and apparently of red granite. The diver brought up several fragments of stone, one of which proved to be a finely chiseled head of Alexander the Great, apparently designed as a wall adornment.

An R. A. F. officer stationed at Amman while flying over the southern part of the Dead sea some time ago distinctly saw a town lying beneath the water. The surface of the sea is usually ruffled and covered with scum from submarine bitumen deposits, but on this occasion it was exceptionally calm and clear. It is surmised that the origin of the story of the destruction of Sodom and Gomorrah may here be revealed.

Linden Tree Wood White, Light, Tough and Durable

There is hardly a more useful or beautiful tree in the forest than the linden or basswood, or, as more freely known in England, the lime tree. It appeals in many ways not only to mankind, but to the bees and even to the foraging creatures. The tender sprouts in the spring are not infrequently tasted by mankind, and found to be sweet and palatable. Besides being a thing of beauty, the linden is one of the most useful trees. In addition to yielding nectar for the bees for one of the finest grades of honey, the wood is highly valued on account of the "whiteness, lightness, toughness and durability." It has a great economic value, and is used for light grades of lumber. It makes good charcoal, is used by druggists and artists, and artificers in carpets, mats, cordage and even clothing and hats. The linden is widely distributed in the United States and Europe. The seed carries a sail, and is blown by the wind far and wide.

Trapper, 83 Years Old, Says He Has No Future

Ortonville, Mich.—Henry Rodenbough, an Oakland county trapper for 72 years, has decided that his vocation has no future.

"But I guess I'll stick with it until I'm a hundred years old and then retire," Rodenbough, eighty-three, said recently. He set his first trap when eleven years old and caught a marten, mink, gray fox, and muskrats.

"But, of course, there is a lot of fun to trapping. I had a trap line 35 miles long when I was a young man and I covered it every day."

Despite his advanced age, Rodenbough still covers a two-mile line during the trapping season. During the depression, however, much of his time has been spent in explaining the intricacies of his trade to unemployed men.

Hoot Owl a Noble Bird and Is Farmers' Helper

In the dusk of evening up and down the wooded valleys of our midwest streams and creeks can be heard the eerie, weird call of the long-eared or hoot owl, observes a writer in Our Dumb Animals. He is liable to be heard any time of year but oftenest in summer or autumn. He is a noble bird and man's friend. He usually has his nest in the forks and hollows of large trees and because of his nocturnal habits and unobtrusive ways he should survive many more decades. His prey consists largely of field mice and chipmunks which are very destructive to fresh planted corn, yet where the owl is these pests are scarce. He will occasionally get young groundhogs and this trait should entitle him to protection. He is also a good weather prophet. If several of his kind take turns at calling and appear to be answering each other from different points up and down the creek during the evening and their calls are a little louder than common, a rain is not far off.

Crop Tests Made All Over Nation

Progress Noted in Breeding Carrots and Onions; Study Potato Yields.

Vegetable growers will be interested in some of the research work now going on in many parts of the country. More than fifty new tests with vegetable crop plants were reported at a recent meeting of specialists in Boston.

Work done in California on vine crops, such as squash, shows the truth of the old belief the earlier the fruit is harvested, the greater the number of flowers and fruit received from the plant.

California workers also reported progress in breeding watermelons, carrots and onions. Now they want a watermelon that resists wilt, and other diseases, but which at the same time keeps its quality. They are also breeding for highly-colored, smooth, tender carrots.

Potato yields suffer sometimes, from lack of enough magnesium in the soil. The leaves usually turn light green or yellow as a result. One Virginia scientist believes chemical analysis of the lower leaves of the plant will show whether nitrogen or magnesium causes poor yields and change in color of the leaves. He adds that experiments show that placement of fertilizer in the soil may injure rather than aid the seed. When cut surfaces of potato seed pieces come in contact with fertilizer, healing is prevented, and injury or kiling of the seed results. Whole seed does not suffer this type of injury.

Pasture Improvement Important for Farmers

Pasture improvement is a profitable undertaking on southeastern Ohio farms if live stock are kept to utilize the extra forage, D. R. Dodd finds after several years of demonstrations in fertilizing, liming and seeding these hillsides. From these tests he makes these deductions:

Reseeding of runout pasture at the time of applying lime and fertilizer is not necessary unless desirable pasture plants cover less than 5 per cent of the ground area or unless quick results are desired.

Fertilizers not only greatly increase the yield but also gradually change the kind of vegetation occupying the land.

When capital is limited, the largest return per dollar invested may be obtained from lime and superphospate. The largest net return, however, comes from a complete fertilizer.

Potash in addition to phosphate alone is not worthwhile as a general rule. Where nitrogen and phosphate are used, the return from additions of potash are much greater.

Nitrogen is by far the most effective of the three common elements in increasing yield. Returns from it, however, are rather limited unless phosphorus and potassium are also present in abundance.—Ohio Farmer.

Long Hitch Tiresome

While the difference between a 10-foot team hitch and 100-foot hitch is considerable, it is not as great as people make out, and it is all bosh that a team cannot drag a 94-pound bag of cement at the end of a 100-foot rope. They can drag it easily, but it would tire them much more rapidly because of the poorer footing. This same reason also explains why the front team of a tandem hitch tires so much more than the rear team; the flatter angle at which they must pull gives them a poorer chance to exert their strength.

Legume Hay Helps Hogs

Winter feeding of legume hay is one of the best means of keeping pigs thrifty, says F. B. Morrison of the New York State College of Agriculture. Professor Morrison points out that well-cured legume hay has many of the qualities of good pasture, such as high protein, mineral and vitamin content. For growing pigs he recommends the following mixture: 50 pounds tankage or meat meal, 25 pounds chopped or ground legume hay and 25 pounds linseed meal.

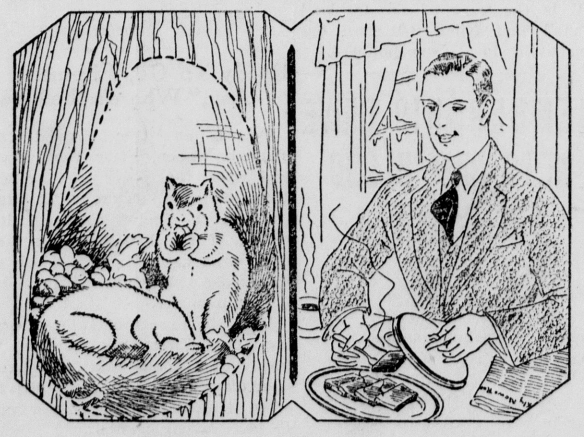
Better Breakfasts



DON'T envy the bear or any of the other creatures to whom the winter means nothing but a long luxurious sleep. On cold mornings, perhaps you can't help giving a wistful thought to their undisturbed slumber. But if civilization has made alarm clocks necessary to man, it also offers him more and more good things for breakfast to make him glad that morning comes every twenty-four hours.

Of course, there's always coffee, with its rich aroma that is a welcome intruder even in the most possum-y brain. And there's always the piping hot comfort of cereal and cream. But these old familiars are only the beginning of good breakfasts that make the gloomiest morning something to wake up for. How about this menu for a stormy morning? Doesn't it make the hibernating squirrel and his few poor nuts an object of your deepest pity?

Meaning of Word "Soviet"

"Soviet" means "council" and was originally used to designate the workers' council which dominated a strike in Tsarist Russia. Each factory would elect a representative to attend the "soviet." It was these soviets that formed the nucleus of the revolution, and theoretically the soviets still dominate.

Farm Loans To Be Issued In Bond Form

Everett Nevin, secretary treasurer of the Pleasanton National Farm Loan Association, received word recently from Wm. I. Meyers, Governor of the Farm Credit Administration, Washington, D.C., that federal land bank loans and land bank commissioner's loans will be made in the future through the federal land bank in bonds of the Federal Farm Mortgage Corporation, which bonds are guaranteed by the United States Government both as to principal and interest, which will be at the rate of three and one-quarter per cent per annum for the bonds to be issued at this time. These bonds will take the place of the cash distribution in the disbursement of the unclosed loans previously approved by the federal land banks.

The bonds of the Federal Farm Mortgage Corporation, according to the statement by Governor Meyers, will have behind them not only the unconditional guarantee of the fedeal government as to both principal and interest, and the capital of the Federal Farm Mortgage Corporation amounting to about $200,000,000, but also the consolidated bonds of the federal land banks issued in exchange for the bonds of the Federal Farm Mortgage Corporation and the mortgages accepted by the land bank commissioner as security for loans.

Governor Meyers assured secretary Nevin that the Federal Farm Mortgage Corporation bonds will be an attractive investment. "They will be as readily marketable as bonds of the United States Government and they will be quoted in all of the principal markets," he continued. "Holders who have to dispose of those bonds should not sell them without first ascertaining their real market value."

The governor particularly stressed the fact that country bankers probably will be large investors in these securities since the creditors of farmers who are being refinanced may not all be in the position where they can hold the bonds so assured and will find it necessary to sell them. Secretary Nevin states that these bonds, which will be tendered to farmers' creditors in payment of the refinanced indebtedness, are "exempt from all Federal, state, municipal and local taxation, except surtaxes and estate, inheritance and gift taxes. They are lawful security for fifteen-day borrowings by member banks of the Federal Reserve System. They are also lawful investments for all trust, public and fiduciary funds of which the deposit or investment is under the authority or control of the government The payments of the interest on these bonds and the repayment of their principal are guaranteed by the United States, which means that if the Federal Farm Mortgage Corporation should ever be unable to meet the payments on the bonds, the Treasury will assume such payments.

"These bonds will be issued in denominations of $100, $500, and $1,000. However, amounts less than $100 will be disbursed in cash. For example, a loan of $965 would be made in a $500 bond, four $100 bonds and the rest in cash. In addition, to provide for certain debts, such as taxes which cannot be paid in bonds, cash covering the required amounts will be provided.

"Loans which have been applied for and approved, but on which the cash has not been paid out, as well as those approved by the bank in the future, will be financed on the above basis. This arrangement in no way disturbs or alters the other provisions of the loans. The interest rate on new loans will continue to be four and one-half per cent for the emergency period when made through a national farm loan association and five per cent when made directly by the bank."

Shipload of Rum May Rise From Sea

Hoquiam, Wash.—Fire water may rise up from the sea if the appearance of masts at low water in the Quinalt river are to be taken as a criterion.

In 1899 the French barque, Ernest Rei, was grounded in the mouth of the river in a fog. It was loaded with choice French liquors. Indians for some months partook of the cargo, but storms sunk the craft.

Storms lately, however, have caused the barque to rise up from the sands again.

Indians recall that although they drank copiously, they consumed only a small portion of the cargo before the boat sank 34 years ago.

PRESIDENT HONORED AT COUNTRY CLUB MEET TUESDAY

Review of Hervey Allen's "Anthony Adverse" by Mrs. Launcelot B. Rainsforth, was received with intense interest by a large number of Country Club members at the clubhouse Tuesday afternoon.

Mrs. Rainsforth, conversant in modern literature, and familiar with Allen's point of view, gave an extremely lucid review.

The review was followed by a reception in honor of Mrs. Josephine A. Brown, the outgoing president. Mrs. Brown has served the club for two years.

Appointment made at the meet included Mrs. H. F. Chadbourne, Mrs. R. L. Pond and Mrs. Barton Brown as the new nominating committee.

The club voted to accept an invitation by the California Nursery Company to follow the May business meeting with a tea at the nursery grounds.

MANUEL V. ARRUDA PLEADS GUILTY TO DOUBLE MURDER

Sentence Delayed Until April 30 On Plea Of Attorney

Unperturbed in the face of warnings by the court that his plea may lead to his death on the gallows, Manuel V. Arruda, 25, pleaded guilty to two charges of murder before Superior Judge Frank M. Ogden at Oakland Monday.

Taciturn and unruffled as he was when examined before Judge Norris at Centerville, Arruda admitted to the Oakland court his shooting of his stepfather and stepbrother, Joseph Bento, Sr., and Joseph Bento, Jr., in the back at Newark on September 6. Both Bentos died at the Alameda County Hospital.

The accused man made no statements as to his motive in court, but is said to have told officers that the two Bentos, in his belief, had hastened his mother's death.

According to reports, no trace of Frank Arruda, younger brother of the ex-marine, has been found.

Public Defender Willard Shea, representing Arruda, obtained a delay in sentence until April 30.

K. C. Degree Team To Act at Oakland Council

CHANGES IN WATER SYSTEM EQUIPMENT BEING WORKED OUT

R. R. Commission Extends Time For Completion Of Improvements

Time for completion of improvements stipulated by the railroad commission in the Centerville Water Company equipment has been extended to June 1, it was learned last week.

According to water company officials, engineers have been employed to map plans to comply with the railroad commission orders. The company staff has been busy with arrangements by which the improvements will be financed.

Among new installations, it is said, will be a new pump and a steel tank and tower. The tank will be of 50,000 gallons capacity and will increase the water pressure in the entire system to a point greater than that required by the commission.

With the exception of the construction of the tank and tower, which will be erected by a bridge firm, equipment and labor will come from local sources.

Planning Commission To Decide On Parish Avenue

As soon as confirmed by the Alameda county planning commission, the name of Parish Avenue, chosen for the old school street, will be placed on the sign posts by the Lions club.

The controversy over the name has subsided and a petition circulated some time ago proved that the name chosen was satisfactory to the residents. The name was submitted to the board of supervisors, and then passed along for final approval by the planning commission. Final word from that group will see the signs in place.

PUBLIC SCHOOLS WEEK TO START ON APRIL 23

Plans for the annual Public Schools week to be held during the week of April 23 to the 27, are being arranged according to word received from Stanley Smallwood, of Pleasanton, last week.

A program in which all schools in the Pleasanton district will participate will be presented on Wednesday evening of April 25 at the high school. This program is under the direction of Harry Tripp, musical professor of the township schools.

The purpose of the week is to bring the adults of the community in closer contact with the work that is being done by the students in the schools.

The Pleasanton and Sunol schools are planning some fine exhibits to be held at the respective schools during the week, which the public is urgently invited to attend.

The cost of operating schools have been cut considerably. We locally are becoming more and more dependent upon the state money to operate the schools. In California we have been more fortunate than other sections of the country, yet at the last legislature the greatest efforts were made to reduce beyond even the breaking point, the amount of support which should be given to our schools by the State of California.

THREE GAMES NEXT WEEK FOR HIGH SCHOOL TEAM

Polishing off their record before the Easter vacation, the Washington high huskers trounced Berkeley high's baseball team to a tune of 15 to 2. To add to the Yellowjackets shame, the defeat was handed them in their own back yard.

Huskers who saw action in the contest were: Robinson, Brown, Muniz, E. Mellerios, Amaral, Rose, Dundas, Wilson, Robello, Muni, Hikedo, Silva, G. Mederios.

Tomorrow Regli's boys will trek to Emeryville where they will meet the Emeryville high tossers. The game will be in the nature of a warmer for the tough schedule set for the following week, when the Centerville aggregation will meet Berkeley on Tuesday, Palo Alto on Wednesday, and Pleasanton on Friday. All the games will be at the Centerville diamond.

Jess Regli, Husker coach, to whom a championship baseball club is nothing new, states that his 1934 team is the best he ever had.

A week from today, the Husker track team, tried only in one meet so far, will travel to Livermore, where they will vie with the Cowboys. Both the 130 pound teams and the unlimiteds will compete.

There is a new view point of the schools. The so called fundamental subjects are taught today better than formerly, but the concept of what constitutes real fundamentals has changed. Development of desirable character, good health, good social attitude and ideals, understanding and appreciation of natural and social forces, the ability to meet properly and to solve problems of everyday living are considered the large aim of the school.

HISTORY OF CALIFORNIA NEWSPAPERS

(By WNU Service)

Before the gold rush, before California became a state, before there were cities of size in the western territory, printers and editors marched hand-in-hand with pioneers into this state and set up their presses.

Many a tiny ship that bravely plowed the waters around the horn from New York to California carried a printing press. Many of the prairie schooners carried fonts of type.

California's first newspaper was printed on paper which was intended to wrap cigars. It was run off on a Mexican hand press that had been left at Monterey. The type was dirty and twisted. There were no W's but for all that the paper came out.

Known as the "Californian," the first newspaper saw the light of day in Monterey on August 15, 1846. Its printer was Robert Semple, who also was the first president of a state constitutional convention. Its editor was the Rev. Walter Colton.

Lack of W's in the Spanish alphabet didn't bother the printer and editor too much. They put V's together as long as the V's lasted and then they used U's.

Their thoughts, marshalled forth in the prospectus, page one, column one, (there were only two columns) weren't so different from many that appear today. In part they said:

"We shall maintain freedom of speech and the press, and those great principles of religious toleration, which allows every man to worship God according to the dictates of his own conscience.

"We shall advocate such a system of public education as will bring the means of a good practical education to every child in California."

Following Semple and Colton to California was Samuel Brannan, a Mormon, who brought a complete printing outfit from New York by boat and began publishing the "California Star" in San Francisco in October 1846. This paper was combined in January 1849 with the Monterey paper as "Alta Californian."

That was the first newspaper merger in California, a step in the progress of publishing in this state that has been aped many thousands of times since.

The "Alta Californian" did a land office business at the outset. An historian says that "Its receipts for advertising alone often ran as high as $2,000 a day."

After making a fortune out of the paper it was sold for $125,000 gold in 1850.

Brannan picked a good time to get out. More and more papers were coming into the field. Some of them have lived. Many died. Some were reborn only to die again.

Editors would start publication one day and go after gold the next, leaving equipment stand where it was.

San Francisco had five morning newspapers at one time—the Chronicle, Herald, Town Talk, Alta and Globe.

The first evening newspaper in California was the Picayune, born August 3, 1850. Died while in infancy.

The Watchman was California's first religious paper and the California Illustrated Times, the first picture paper. Both were born in 1850. May their pages rest in peace.

Editors of the early days in San Francisco had a taste for weird names. Out came "Satan's Bassoon" to be followed by "The Present and Future," "Star of the West," "Uncle Sam," "Tam-Tam," and "The Phare."

Sacramento's first daily was the Union. It was first published March 19, 1851 and has never missed a day of publication since. Its record is the oldest in the west.

Los Angeles' first newspaper was the Star, published first, May 17, 1851. Santa Barbara first read the Gazette May 24, 1855. Santa Cruz was given the Pacific Sentinel in June 1856.

By that date newspapers were common in California. Every community in the state had her editor—sometimes more. Some of the editors starved for principles. Some waxed fat for a time on public favor and then were killed in a duel or grew weary of the hum-drum life and started an editorial campaign which spelled death to the paper.

Hand printing presses gave way to power. Hand set type gave way to linotype machines. Telegraph operators were displaced by the "iron mike" or teletype machines. Everywhere the urge for speeding up communications came into vogue with advancing years.

Press associations were formed to gather the world wide news, condense it and send it by wires to daily newspapers in all parts of the world.

Feature services were born—those to supply pictures, those to supply comic strips, those to supply all of the various material that now goes into our newspapers of today.

Changes have been rapid in the newspaper business. Color printing and rotogravure printing have been the newest stages. Editors predict greater changes for the future—a machine that will allow a reporter to set type as he punches his typewriter keyboard is one of these.

As fast as ideas have come into the newspaper publishing business has come the expressed need for more and more newspapers until today nearly every little hamlet has its weekly and every city its several dailies.

Down thru the years, California has seen more newspapers come and go than any state in the union, save New York. There are some 700 newspapers of various types published today in California. Many of the editors are still carrying out the traditions of their predecessors in the days of '49—freedom of speech and press, religious freedom, public education of children.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR OFFICERS NAMED SUNDAY

The Christian Endeavor elected officers last Sunday evening. Those chosen to the several offices were: President, Ted Dundas; first vice-president, Jack Rathbone; second vice-president, Vernon Ellsworth; third vice-president, Jack Townsend; secretary-treasurer, Kathryn Rathbone, and pianist, Estelle Martenstein.

Installation by candle light will be held a week from Sunday, followed by a short religious play, presented by the young people of the church. This entire service will be held in the main auditorium of the church. The public is cordially invited.

A large audience attended the Sunday morning Easter service. The church was beautifully decorated with flowers and the service was inspirational from the prelude to the benediction. The church has a warm heart of welcome throughout the year for everyone who wishes to worship there. The subject for next Sunday morning is one of challenge and modern appeal—"Can a Modern Man Who has no Sense of God Gain One?" The key to the treatment of the subject by the pastor may be discovered in the following quotation: "The fish needs not to soar to find the ocean nor the eagle to plunge to find the air." Mrs. Wesley Dexter Gordon will sing John Henry Newman's inspired hymn, "Lead Kindly Light."

Beginning Sunday morning, April 8 the junior and senior departments of the Sunday school will hold opening exercises together. The pastor will have a special story each Sunday, or will present interesting facts about the history of the Bible which every child should know. One of the main features of this opening service, however, will be the learning of sacred hymns. The Sunday school department wishes to express its genuine welcome to every child in the community not attending Sunday school elsewhere.

EXPRESSION OF THANKS FROM INCUMBENT DIRECTORS OF ALAMEDA COUNTY WATER DISTRICT

The Directors of Alameda County Water District elected at the recent election, held March 27, 1934, take this opportunity to express their thanks and appreciation to the voters of this District for their continued loyalty and support.

Since the formation of the District 20 years ago there have been many trying occasions when this solid backing has been the only bright spot in very difficult times.

On this 20th anniversary of the founding of the District we present the following summary of past events and add thereafter an outline of what we hope to do for the future.

In 1913 to 1914, after a most courageous campaign in our only newspaper at Niles against the sinister influence of interests seeking further diversion of water from the District, a large number of property owners assessed themselves at the rate of 5c per acre to meet the expense of getting the District started. After a long and expensive fight against the Spring Valley Water Company to prevent the loss of the entire water supply of Alameda Creek to that company through new diversions and storage, an arbitration award was made which gives the District a substantial part of the water stored in Calaveras Reservoir. This is the "release" that flows down Alameda Creek each spring into the gravels to support underground water supply for our wells. In theory, it constitutes a "return" to the District of water in lieu of what would have gone into the gravels had there been no impounding. We believed and still do believe that the award was extremely unjust, but it was supported by the Supreme Court after a contest, and it was the best we could do, and of course, it was far better than losing all this water of Alameda Creek. This is certainly what would have happened had we not made our fight.

We also instituted litigation against the East Bay Water Company to stop increase of pumping at Alvarado. This latter diversion of underground water had become established to a certain extent by reason of adverse use through a number of years before our District was established, and diversion from our District was on the increase at this point. We were successful in stopping increase in pumping and further threatened diversion by the East Bay Water Company.

The East Bay Water Company was in actual use of water amounting in some months to about 8½ million gallons a day, and made claims in excess of this. Its use of water was exceedingly prejudicial because its draft was from the underground or saved waters, and, as the percentage of water from the stream flow of Alameda Creek, which in ordinary years percolates into the Creek gravel and does not run on into the Bay, is variously estimated from 15 per cent to 20 per cent, it is easy to see what a great part of our Creek flow was being obtained by East Bay Water Company. This was all year pumping; not merely pumping in the irrigation season. The final result was that in 1930 we bought from the East Bay Municipal Utility District which had succeeded to the East Bay Water Company, the entire Alameda and Newark properties, including all water rights, for the sum of $290,000.00. Included in the tangible property were 385 acres of land, and the old plant and equipment which realized a substantial sum, and the two local water systems at Alvarado and Newark. The pumping at Alvarado was, of course, immediately suppressed. Other concerns had been seeking to acquire these water rights and property. The District made the best bargain possible. The situation was presented to the people of the District, and the purchase price referred to was provided by a tax levy and the present bond issue of $250,000.00 which was almost unanimously voted.

This brings us to the present. The auditor's report shows the building up of a substantial cash account. The District has made a successful disposition of some of the discarded Alvarado plant equipment and pipe, so that at the present time it has in savings accounts $5,395.56.

We will thus, for the coming year, be able to keep down our tax rate while at the same time providing for our annual interest and bond requirements. In 1935 we will have to begin payment of principal on bonds at the rate of $12,500.00 per year. It is hoped that the practice of economy on our part and some degree of improvement in economic conditions will make our financial burden light. Disposal of the Alvarado land has not been feasible during the depression. Any sale of it will, of course, be subject to water rights. The District has cut down expense where possible. And as for the future, we intend to cut down costs wherever that may be done safely, as we have in the past.

We have been prevented from gaining the full effect of shutting off the Alvarado pumping by the long and exceptional continuance of dry years resulting in unusually poor winter flow in the Creek from the part of the water-shed not affected by Calaveras reservoir. With anything like normal replenishment of the gravels, the situation would be greatly improved. Expectation of further improvement comes from reduced pumping by the San Francisco system in the Pleasanton section. That system represented another ancient diversion of water above the District to the further great prejudice of our natural supply. Our great problem is to increase the water supply so as to restore and hold the water level in our gravel beds. We, of course, intend to put our best efforts into working out some practical and economical plan of raising the water table.

Magdalena, N. M.—I. P. Erickson, Gallup, N. M., found a wounded 100-pound antelope more than a match for him and was ready to quit when Game Warden Zahnley came to his rescue. The two men finally downed the animal. After wounding the antelope, Erickson attempted to bulldog it to earth. When the scuffle ended, the hunter was a half mile from his gun and his body was covered with bruises.

CENTERVILLE LOSES TO NEWARK CLUB 6-4 SUNDAY

The Newark J & F's won their first victory in the Harder Summer Alameda County League by defeating the Centerville Merchants with a score of six to four.

Watson, chucker for the Merchants, pitched a splendid game. The defeat can be charged to the team at large as the fielding seemed to lack the fight and vigor that is so necessary.

The outstanding hitting of the day was done by Watson and Brown, Centerville players and Art Silva, Howard and Warren Robinson, and Dondero for Newark.

Ferera pitched for Newark, allowing six hits, walking seven and striking out nine. Watson allowed twelve hits, walked three and struck out eight.

The J & F's next game will be with Ashland at Ashland, Sunday, April eighth.

Pipeline To Sunol From Dam To Check Seepage

In order to check seepage into the gravels between the Calaveras dam and the water temple at Sunol, construction has been progressing for some time on a pipeline laid in the stream channel from the dam to catchment basin near the Sunol structure. All water released from the dam after the pipeline is completed will touch no natural channel.

Pipe being used in the construction of the line was used formerly as an emergency line from San Lorenzo to Newark, when San Francisco was forced to purchase water from the East Bay District two years past.

Protected Black Bass Thrive In Ponds On Alameda Creek

Patience and sense on the part of Niles anglers who make a practice of fishing in the gravel pits will result in an excellent fishing ground in two or three years, according to Lawrence Bunting, gravel company official.

Black bass, one of the liveliest game fish, have been stocked in the ponds, and are now multiplying. Bunting said that the fish were first placed in the holes about ten years ago. If not molested the bass will migrate to all holes west of Niles, Bunting stated.

Mingling with the common perch, the game fish have been taken by fishermen many times during the past months. It is the hope of the pit owners that any caught hereafter will be tossed back into the water. Permanence of the habitat will make the holes excellent breeding grounds. There is sufficient grass growth on the bottom to insure protection of the small fry from marauding water fowl. Numbers of the fish are being transplanted to other holes in the vicinity.

Anyone taken fishing on the private pouds will be penalized, Bunting said.
